

Don't let your obligation to pay your West Virginia state unemployment taxes (SUTA) outweigh your mission.

West Virginia's SUTA cost has increased by 68% since 2009, however your nonprofit organization may be eligible for a lower cost alternative. As a 501c3 nonprofit organization (or governmental entity) you have options when it comes to financing your unemployment obligation to your former employees. Learn more at a free webinar presented by West Virginia Nonprofit Association business member, First Nonprofit Group:

Wednesday, October 21 - 11:00 a.m.

Who should attend?

Nonprofit executives from 501c3 nonprofit organizations or governmental entities with 10 or more employees who are looking for a solution to their unemployment tax obligation or those already taking advantage of the reimbursement method.

Start your due diligence now so that you're all set by the December 1st state conversion deadline!
