Michael Whalton is originally from Key West Florida. He moved to a farm in Hedgesville, West Virginia with his wife Susan and their two children in 1994. Since then, he has served on the board of the Eastern West Virginia Community Foundation, earned an RBA and an MBA from Shepherd University, and worked at a start-up community foundation in Virginia. In April 2012, Michael succeeded Amy Owen as executive director of the Eastern West Virginia Community Foundation.

Julie Posey is the Development and Communications Officer for the Parkersburg Area Community Foundation. She works with individuals, families, and businesses to create a shared sense of philanthropy and to create civic endowments for the betterment of an eleven-county region. Julie enjoys learning more about the PACF’s donors, hearing their stories, and uncovering what inspires them to give back to our communities.
